Titusville Morning Herald.

Thaddeus Stevens, the Ajax of the House.

From the New York Tribune

As he is the central, so he is the most individual portrait of the great group. His face has Olympian lines in it, as Mr Carlyle would say. His hands are thin and white, though they show no quivering, and while his eyes are so deeply set under their square, savage brows, and so lighted from within with almost funeral shadows, that they look like a blind man's, he reads without glasses the writing which he holds two feet away, steadily at 74 years of age. Standing like a statue—his black, lusterless wig making still more pallid his ample forehead—this man of strong and combative physiognomy looks like a maimed and aged veteran, used to fighting forlorn hopes. There is a splendid convexity to his lips when they are shut, as if full of disdainfulness for all wrong and conventionality, and a prompt and splendid toss of the head indicating intrepidity and yet intractible indignation at whatever is mean, cowering or dishonest. Of broad and bending back, pain and dark in his path he seems the incarnation of an indomitable lifetime, content to be in less than a minority, to be quiet alone. He has a rare dignity, and an almost religious impressiveness of declamation, disappointing to those who expect only a redundant bitterness. His voice is the expiring breath of eloquence almost lost at times, but never shrill, and never broken, yet full of cadences and as he gesticulates with a fierce and difficult majority, you see that his joints are stiff and that he has only an old man's volition over his bodily inertia. It is feared by some that he will never again take the floor, the three score and ten years of man's life having brought to him the infirmities of our species and the occasion is ominous from this personal circumstance as well as from the significance of the days legislation. Senators are here, therefore, and strange Ambassadors and many people of repute in many walks, so that this moment is an historic one, and suggestive of a more extended reflection.

It has been asked how and why Thaddeus Stevens came before the country with all absorbing prominence, so late in life and what characteristics he possesses to merit his apparently entire authority. The answer to this is crisp enough, he is a man of long and consistent conviction, of thorough legislative experience, and of great argument and adroitness. There are speeches extant of this statesman delivered thirty years ago, which grasp with startling accuracy all the issues verified in the present. He also was a school teacher and is the virtual author of the Pennsylvania school system. He was nurtured in the detestation of whatever was contrary to pure republicanism and in his love of liberty his manifested almost romantic attachment. When the war began he was perhaps the only man who saw in it the downfall of slavery, and he devoted himself from the beginning of the first gun to the reconstruction of the country so that not only might slavery and rebellion be annihilated but all the pernicious prejudices and passions of its partisans. His position was an advanced one. When the events brought other men to him they admitted his sagacity and discovered his intellect. He is a man of bold thoughts of broad scope of action full of manly impatience for democracy but inflexible in his devotion to freedom and his potentiality is the natural issue of superior experience and resistless will. Many of his violent enunciations have had plausible purpose. He takes a place on the skirmish line sometimes that the battle position may be chosen with up. He is not yet to recognize justice in an adversary and will some forgiveness toward Mr Simon Cameron when the latter in the early part of the war declared for arming the blacks. His closing speech upon the constitutional amendment tells better than any analysis the secret of his eminence.

In my youth in my manhood and in my old age I have fondly dreamed that when any fortunate chance should have broken up for a time the foundations of our institutions and released us from obligations the most tyrannical that were ever imposed in the name of the law the intelligent free and just men of this Republic true to their professions and their conscience would have so remodeled all our institutions as to have freed them from every vestige of human oppression, of inequality of rights, of the recognized degradation of the poor and the superior caste of the rich—in short, that no distinction would be tolerated in this purified Republic but what arose from merit and conduct. This bright dream has vanished like the useless fabric of a vision. I find that we shall be obliged to be content with patching up the worst portions of the ancient edifice, and leaving it in many of its parts to be swept through by the tempests the frosts and the storms of despotism. Do you inquire who holding the views and possessing some will of my own I accept so imperfect a proposition? I answer he who believes that union men is intelligent is determined and is independent is loyal, who, not agreeing with me, does not choose to yield their opinions to mine. Mutual concession therefore, is our only resort or mutual hostilities.

We might well have been justified in making renewed and more strenuous efforts for a better plan could we have had the co-operation of the Executive. With his cordial assistance the United States might have been made model republics, and this nation an empire of universal freedom. But he preferred restoration to reconstruction. He chose that the slave States should remain as nearly as possible in their ancient condition with such small modifications as he and his ministers should suggest, without any important interference from Congress. He entreated the legitimate action of the National Legislature and by rank usurpation created governments in the conquered provinces, imposed them on them institutions in the most arbitrary and unconstitutional manner, and now maintains them as legitimate governments, and insolently demands that they shall be represented in Congress on equal terms with loyal and regular States. I represent this tyranny and at the same time to do justice to the conquered rebels requires caution. The great danger is that the accidents may soon overwhelm the loyal men in Congress. He have urged upon us by some loyal but impatient men their anxiety to embrace the representatives of rebels their ambition to display their dexterity in the use of the broad mantle of charity and especially the danger arising from the unscrupulous use of patronage and from the oily promises of false prophets. Promises for sixty day obligations and for protested political promises admonish us to make no further delay. A few words will suffice to explain the changes made by the Senate in the proposition which we sent them.

The first section is altered by defining who are citizens of the United States and of the States. This is an excellent amendment long needed to settle conflicting decisions between the several States and the United States. It declares this great privilege to belong to every person born or naturalized in the United States. The second section has received but slight alterations. I wish it had received more. It contains much less power than I could wish. It has not had the vigor of the amendment which was lost in the Senate. But in the proposition offered by Senator Wade would have added the enfranchisement of colored men in half the time.

The third section has been wholly changed by substituting the inability of certain high officers of the rebellion for the disfranchisement of all rebels until 1870. This I cannot look upon as an improvement. It opens the door to rebellion to such as the Southern House to admit. In my judgment it brings to the Government of the country both Senate and National and may give the next Congress and President to the reconstructed rebels. With their enlarged basis of representation and exclusion of the loyal men of color from the ballot box, I see no hope of safety unless in the perpetuation of proper enabling acts, which shall do justice to the loyal men and enjoin entrenchment as a condition precedent. The fourth section which reads is invalid the public debt and repudiates the rebel debt will secure the approbation of all but traitors. The fifth section is unaltered. You perceive that while I see much good in the proposition, I do not pretend to be satisfied with it. And yet I am anxious for its speedy adoption, for I dread delay. The danger is that before any constitutional guards shall have been adopted Congress will be flooded by rebels and rebel sympathizers. Whoever has mingled much in deliberative bodies must have observed the mental as well as physical nervousness of many members hurrying them too often to injudicious action. Whoever has watched the feelings of this House during the tedious months of this session listened to the impatient whispering of some and the open declarations of others, especially when such able and sincere men as the gentleman from Ohio propose to gratify personal predilections by breaking the ranks of the Union forces and presenting to the enemy a ragged front of struggling divisions to hasten the result and prevent the demoralization of our friends. Hence, I say, let us no longer delay, take what we can get now, and hope for better things in further legislation—in enabling acts or other provisions. I now, Sir, ask for the question.

THE LATE GENERAL CASS.

Personal Characteristics.

Probably the most salient characteristics of the deceased statesman was his robust strength physical and intellectual. The vigor of his constitution, inherited from hardy parents and fortified by an active and stirring life, is attested by his longevity and the uniform excellence of his health. His personal appearance gave evidence of the possession of great bodily strength and rare powers of endurance. His habits were unexceptionable. He neither used tobacco in any form nor even tasted ardent spirits as a beverage and he died with a system unweakened, and a soul untainted by licentiousness in any guise. The traits of his intellect were also of the virile type. No public man of his generation surpassed him in potent reason and tireless energy. His executive abilities were remarkable, and the multifarious duties of his life were invariably discharged with fidelity and dispatch. His personal intrepidity became proverbial, and found many opportunities for effective display in the war of 1812 and in his twenty years intercourse with the North American savages.

HIS BUSINESS HABITS

In his business habits Mr Cass was always just and liberal. During his life he never sued a debtor, and in the great commercial crises which have periodically convulsed the financial fabric, his course toward those with whom he was connected in business relations, was invariably generous beyond all common precedent. Were the recital permissable, we might mention striking instances of this fact in our own city. His great wealth was the result of early purchase of lands made in this region, and the subsequent increase in value of his real estate. It is estimated that at the time of his death General Cass was worth considerably over $1,000,000. In 1864 his income was returned at about $50,000.

His wealth was largely the result of his fortunate original investment in real estate, but the steady increase of his property in value has been also due to able management. In all enterprises of public improvements—railroads, highways and other systems of internal development—he willingly participated, and in matters of charity, though not a miscellaneous giver, no meritorious and well substantiated appeal ever failed of a response.

LAST DAYS AND ILLNESS.

Until about two years ago, General Cass was, to all appearances, hale and hearty, and not unfrequently might have been seen enjoying an early morning or evening walk. A short time subsequent to the above date, his health began to fail, and it failed very rapidly since the cold weather set in last fall. During the month of January he was very ill, and at one time it was thought that he would not live to see the end of the month.

THE CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT.

Speech of the Hon. Thaddeus Stevens, of Pa., on the Constitutional Amendment in the House of Representatives, June 13.

Mr. STEVENS—Mr Speaker, we may, perhaps congratulate the House and the country on the near approach to completion of a proposition to be submitted to the people for the admission of an outlawed community into the privileges and advantages of a civilized and free Government. When I say that we should rejoice at such completion I do not thereby intend so much to express joy at the superior excellence of the scheme as that there is to be a scheme—a scheme containing much positive good as well, I am bound to admit, as the omission of many better things. In my youth, in my manhood in my old age I had proudly dreamed that, when any fortunate chance should have broken up for a while the foundation of our institutions and released us from obligations the most tyrannical that ever man imposed in the name of freedom, that the intelligent, pure and just men of this Republic, true to their professions and their consciences, would have so remodeled all our institutions as to have freed them from every vestige of human oppression, of inequality of rights, of the recognized degradation of the poor and the superior caste of the rich—in short, that no distinction would be tolerated in this purified Republic but what arose from merit and conduct. A CUBAN AFFAIR OF HONOR.

Gay Romance and Sad Reality—An Old Fool and a Young Fool Shoot at Each Other—The Young Fool Killed.

A correspondent of a New York paper, from Santiago de Cuba, says:

In a Spanish theatrical company lately here, was a lady, young, handsome and talented. She has smitten many they say, and in return accepted proffered hearts innumerable. This sort of thing is called love by courtesy only but the course of such runs oftentimes with as little smoothness as that of true love. A gentleman who shall be nameless, was smitten by this lady, and paid her unremitting attention so much so that there were, strangely enough rumors of marriage—for the lady, though very fair, is very frail. Be that as it may, the gentleman if not matrimonially inclined, was an accepted lover of the strongest type. In course of time a rival appeared. One day the rivals met the one glorying in his triumph, the other envious and devoured by chagrin by no means in a temper to endure each other. They met at dinner but no wine was needed to excite men already excited by each other's presence. The scene, though festive was not gay, nor did the presence of the lady tend to make matters more agreeable. When she rose the fortunate lover escorted her to the door, and returned to the table in time to hear a bitter remark from his discomfited rival.

To make a long story short, a challenge was sent and accepted that very night. A duel was agreed on—just think of two men one a colonel in the army, the other a young lawyer in good practice, one with a family to take care of, both in good positions in society, agreeing that one or the other, or both, should die for a woman who cared for neither. I should think that the old Greek hatred of the Spaniards had something to do with the immovable determination of the young lawyer to accept no apology from the Colonel, who did all in his power to avoid the frightful alternative of murder, suicide, or disgrace. His adversary was inexorable and they fought. At the second fire the successful lover fell mortally wounded, and in three days more was buried. The Colonel, of course, has left the Island. The lady dines tranquilly every day at the table where the dispute occurred, not yet a month ago. She sits opposite me, and we talk about it as we do of theatres or any other common place matter. She is sorry in a common-place way. "It is such a pity he was killed, he was such a fine looking fellow. Would I be kind enough to give her a wing of that chicken, with a little of the breast? Poor fellow, he lived not quite two days. Is that pork steak? Think you, don't like pork. The ball passed clean through his stomach." And so we gossip till dinner is over.

Commander Warren, of the United States steamer Blenville, writes to the Navy Department from Aspinwall 11th giving the particulars of the great fire at Panama, on the 4th and enclosing copies of a letter from the authorities of the place returning thanks for the services of the crew of the Blenville in extinguishing the fire.

Commodore Rogers communicates that the United States steamer Vanderbilt arrived at Acapulco on the 8th of May, with the Monadnock, after a passage of eight days and a half from Panama.

The town, he says, is occupied by the French, with a single vessel, the Lucifer, of eight guns, lying at anchor before it.

The shores of the bay are belengered by the Liberals, so that the peaceful governor is within cannon shot The town cannot safely be approached

The naval agent desired the protection of the American flag in giving coal to the Monadnock "We will" the Commander says "probably be detained here for this purpose three or four days, after which I shall proceed to San Francisco stopping at Magdalena Bay to transfer coal from the Vanderbilt to the Monadnock The average number of knots run by the latter vessel has been six and a half per hour The greatest distance run by her in one day was 157 miles and the least 147

At the expiration of the morning hour the Tax bill was taken up

HOUSE—June 21

Mr Price of Miss from the Committee on Naval Affairs reported back the Senate joint resolution for the restoration of Lieutenant Commander L Lawes, United States Navy to the active list from the retired list, which was read three times and passed

Mr Morrill from the Committee of Ways and Means reported a bill to reorganize the Treasury Department and fix the pay of its employees He said that the distribution of the $ 000 appropriated last year for extra compensation to the employes of the Treasury Department had given great dissatisfaction Assistant Secretary had recently passed the Senate, but from conversation with members of the House he was quite satisfied that a bill giving such discretionary power to the Secretary could not pass the House Still it was apparent that the employes of the Treasury Department must have their pay increased and the Committee of Ways and Means deemed it best to report a bill fixing the matter definitely and legally This bill he said if the same number of employes were retained would only increase the annual expenditure about $ 5 000

Mr Stevens expressed his surprise at this measure being reported from the Committee on Ways and Means as it properly belonged and was now virtually before the Committee on Appropriations The Secretary of the Treasury had reported that out of the $250 000 left last session to his discretionary distribution, he had only distributed $25 000 among the heads of Bureaus and high salaried clerks, and had asked what was to be done with the $225 000 The Committee on Appropriations had prepared a bill for its proper distribution and reported it several months since, and though that was within the knowledge of the Secretary he had since gone and without any regard to it distributed the $22 74000 as he thought proper He moved the reference of the bill to the Committee on Appropriations

The motion was lost—yeas 41 nays 70 and the bill was read twice and recommitted to the Committee on Ways and Means and ordered to be printed

One hundred thousand copies of the majority and minority reports on Reconstruction were ordered printed

Republican Primary Meetings.

Pursuant to a resolution of the County Committee at a primary meeting held in Meadville February 14, 1866, the Republican Union voters of Crawford County will meet at the places of holding elections in their respective districts on FRIDAY June 22, 1866, between the hours of one and seven o'clock p m, to nominate candidates for the following offices

One person for Congress
One person for Additional Law Judge,
Two persons for Assembly
One person for Sheriff
One person for Prothonotary
One person for Register and Recorder
One person for Clerk of the Courts
One person for Commissioner
Two persons for Auditor
One person for Coroner

The Return Judges of the several districts will meet at the Court House, in Meadville, on the following Tuesday, (the 26th,) at one o'clock p m, to announce the result of said election, and also to appoint a County Committee to consist of one member from each district, and to transact such other business as may properly be brought before them

REUBEN WHITE, Chairman

GO TO THE POLLS AND VOTE.

The polls will be opened at the Engine House this p m at 1 o'clock. Every citizen should express his preferences for candidates to be put in nomination to day "Let the other sections of the county see that Titusville means business" hereafter, and proposes to have a word to say as regards the distribution of official honors. If a full vote is polled, Eastern Crawford will no longer be left out in the cold where "Petty politicians" make up the slate at Meadville

The People's Choice.

JOSEPH T CHASE is the people's choice for Assembly, and his election is a foregone conclusion. As a member of the Legislature, there can be no longer any doubt that we shall secure a new county, for "Joe" carries through successfully whatever he undertakes

Pettis has been working very strenuously and unscrupulously against him in other parts of the county, but without success. His opposition has reacted upon himself. He carries too much Rock Island ordnance—Hudibrastic muskets, which—

Whether charged for ducks or plover
Recoil and kick their owners over

Vote for Joseph T. Chase, and the new county is a certain event

VOTE for Joseph T Chase for Assembly

Very Non-Committal.

Mr Mowbray asked Mr Pettis on Wednesday evening if he would pledge himself in favor of our new County project Mr Pettis replied by saying, "If I am elected to Congress this fall I will give my influence in favor of having a member elected from the oil region as my successor So far as the new county is concerned, I believe you are entitled to it, and ultimately you will get it When you do I pledge myself to sell out my $20,000 house in Meadville and remove to Titusville" This is a very sly piece of sarcasm, but not likely to make any votes for the bounty broker. If he had said, "Gentlemen, I intend to work against your new county project but as you have got heavy taxes to pay this year on your bounty loans I will just disgorge that $800 which I made out of you in my stock speculation the citizens of Titusville would have thought it far more manly honest and straight forward—though it we seriously doubt whether they would vote for him for Congress even then

VOTE for Joseph T Chase for Assembly

Why Pettis Opposes J. T. Chase.

Mr Pettis is co editor and proprietor of the Meadville Journal In the last number of that paper he prints several denunciatory paragraphs upon Mr Chase and says

"That he is pledged to exert himself to his utmost to bring about a division of Old Crawford County, Are the voters of Western Crawford ready to help elect a man who will not represent their views on this question if he gets into the Legislature? No man who is opposed to a dismemberment of Old Crawford should give a vote for J T Chase"

Well, we think the voters of Eastern Crawford will have something to say on the Assembly question, and they owe no favors to Mr Pettis for giving the above advice to his friends in Western Crawford

VOTE for Joseph T Chase for Assembly

A Piece of Advice.

Prof Lowe intends making a grand balloon ascension in Titusville on the Fourth of July and he offers to take a few passengers up for company As our friend Pettis has a rather uplifting turn we advise him not only to take an airy ride, but also to secure a ticket in the Prize Drawing He will stand a good chance of going from here to Halifax and will stand a good deal better chance of drawing a wing prize from Gitt, than he does of going to Congress from the people

A Funny Excuse.

Mr Pettis received $3 000 from Titusville to pay for putting in thirty recruits at $100 per man He put in twenty-one recruits and then pocketed the balance of the money because he was not asked for it Our city taxes this year amount to five or six per cent, a part of which is to pay the interest on bounty loans If Pettis had acted squarely, in the bounty brokerage matter, our taxpayers would have been relieved of a great burden

VOTE for Joseph T Chase for Assembly

Should a Law-Breaker be a Law-Maker?

Mr Pettis forgot to explain on Wednesday evening, by what authority he has been using the United States mails free of charge for several weeks past to circulate his ballots and campaign documents

Is the man who violates the very law which he is sworn to execute in the capacity of United States Mail Agent, fit to be trusted with the more exalted and responsible position of Law Maker?

Remember the Friend of the New County.

The only time on New County Bill which passed by the Legislature, it owed its success to Hon. D A Finney, who was a member of the State Senate Let the people of Eastern Crawford show their appreciation of these services today, by returning the compliment at the polls We believe D A Finney will receive nine tenths of the vote of Titusville for the Congressional nomination

VOTE for Joseph T. Chase for Assembly

Let Everybody Vote.

This is a primary meeting for the nomination of candidates to be supported at the ensuing fall election Every legal voter has a right to a ballot, if he intends to ratify his choice at the fall election

Vote for the New County.

Every vote for D. A. Finney for Congress and J T Chase for Assembly is a vote in favor of a new county with Titusville as the county seat Remember that to day, and go early to the polls

"I Saved What I Could."

Such is the language of Mr. Pettis. He might have added, "And I put the rest in my pocket"

VOTE for Joseph T Chase for Assembly

AMENDS—In our report of the Pettis meeting yesterday, we referred to H F Phelps, Esq, U S Commissioner, as a Democrat A friend assures us that we are mistaken, and we withdraw "the soft impeachment" with especial pleasure and satisfaction It was certainly bad enough to have placed him in the ranks of the Pettisites, without casting a severer imputation We tender him a sincere apology

THE fire hose were attached to the new power pump in the Titusville Mills yesterday, and threw a very creditable stream. It can be used very conveniently and effectively in the future at fires occurring in that vicinity.

MASS MEETING IN CORINTHIAN HALL!

ENDORSEMENT OF D. A. FINNEY AND J. T. CHASE!

The meeting called at Corinthian Hall last evening was very largely attended, and so far as numbers and enthusiasm were considered, was in refreshing contrast with that of the previous night

Wm S Morriss, Esq., was called to the Chair and A W Coulter appointed Secretary

Remarks were made by Thomas Goodwin, Geo M Mowbray, James H Buntin, Mr Kennedy of Meadville, W. W Bloss and J T Chase

The following committees were appointed from the several wards to attend the polls to-day

First Ward—J. H. Bunting, C H Smith, J P Culver, J C Bryan, J P Bartis

Second Ward—L H Severance, H B Oldrom, L A Selden, O Keese, Thos Goodwin

Third Ward—F S Wheeler, A. W Coburn John Mulsing, L B Stillman, G C Bartlett

Fourth Ward—J. J McCrum, S Stroup, W W Bloss, Carl Duff, J P Cheeshire

Cheers were given for D A Finney, J T Chase and Capt Peck, the candidate of Eastern Crawford for Sheriff.

The Soldiers' and Sailors' Club of Titusville marched in during the exercises, accompanied by Copeland's Band, which furnished music for the occasion

Altogether it was an enthusiastic and effective demonstration, and had a very wholesome effect on the political atmosphere.

The meeting adjourned to meet at the polls at 1 o'clock p m to day, to vote unanimously for the candidates whom it had endorsed.

The Presbytery.

The Presbytery which held a session here for the purpose of installing Mr Taylor on the day evening on Thursday assembled at the Presbyterian Church for the transaction of business,

This ecclesiastical body embraces the counties of Crawford and parts of the counties of Venango, Mercer and Warren About fifteen delegates, clerical and lay, were present representing as many churches Rev Mr Burchard, of Cherry Tree, gave an interesting account of the proceedings of the General Assembly at St Louis The cause of ministerial education and the measures to be adopted by the church to induce young men to enter this field of Christian labor was with other matters discussed at some length during their brief session

EASTERN CRAWFORD

NEW FIRE ENGINE—Our fire company, fellow citizens Stockpole and Hanson, have attached a complete pump to the machinery in the Titusville Mills so as to act in lieu of a fire engine in case of emergency The power can be applied at a moment's notice and will prove a valuable assistance to the Fire Department in case of a fire in the immediate neighborhood The pump was tested yesterday although it did not throw a powerful stream as either of the city engines still the stream was constant and regular Some boys got hold of the hose in the afternoon and amused themselves by delluging pedestrians as they passed along the sidewalk After soiling several ladies' hats and pouring a refreshing stream into each others faces our vigilant Street Commissioner put a quietus on this plaything entertainment by stopping the pump

SUDDEN DEATH OF AN NOODLES—A celebrated character died at the Crittenden House, yesterday resulting in the instantaneous death of Tip Noodles, an extremely diminutive lap dog belonging to one of the guests of the house, Tip was convicted of a fatal and unmistakable disease of the liver, Byron lamented his Boatswain as having Beauty without vanity, strength without insolence courage without foolhardiness and all the virtues of man without his vices The poet Pope penned a stanza eulogy on his dog at the expense of human nature, and Cowper a little spaniel Beau and Walter Scott's Maida were both wedded to immortal verse

Tip was four inches in his stockingless feet and measured nine inches from "tip to tip" The manner of this death was somewhat unexpected Meeting a restless man in the hall, whose acquaintance he wished to avoid, he attempted to pass underneath him in a spirit of playfulness the big dog fell on him Tip expired without a struggle or a groan A great deal of excitement was created by the event, a jury was impanelled, the affair was investigated and a verdict rendered in accordance with the facts Subsequently the remains of the deceased were placed in a dog coffin and sent by express to New York to be stuffed

'Tis sweet to hear the lap dog's snappish bark
Send out unwelcomes as we draw near home

Alas for Tip! we never shall look upon his like again

SOLDIERS AND SAILORS CLUB—Pursuant to call the Club met last evening at 8 p m, and was called to order by F H Cogswell President The Secretary being absent Surgeon Vorum was elected Secretary pro tem

The subject of the Club participating in the Fourth of July exercises was freely and fully discussed by several members, and on motion it was

Resolved, That all the members of the Club, and all discharged soldiers and sailors, be and are hereby invited to meet at these Rooms on the morning of July 4th and take part in the celebrations and all who can, are requested to appear in uniform

On motion of Capt Wrigley, the meeting adjourned

Many new faces were present and the feeling seemed be unanimous in favor of celebrating Independence Day

OWNER WANTED—The Buffalo Express says "An owner is wanted for two bay mares, a new set of harness and buggy which we reported on Monday morning as having been offered for sale at an unusually low price by a young man professing to hail from Titusville, Pa. It is possible, notwithstanding about a contradictory stories that he is an honest man, still it so he is entitled to considerable sympathy for his mishap, but in these troublous times one must not only avoid being a rogue, but also seeming to be one"

TROTTING MATCH ON THE FOURTH Besides the Firemen's Parade, the great Base Ball Match, the Balloon Ascension, the Pyrotechnics and the great Crittenden Prize Distribution, which are to come off in Titusville on the 4th of July, we learn there is to be a trotting match for a purse of $500, at the Trotting Park As there is to be no public demonstrations in Erie, Meadville, Oil City, Corry, Petroleum Centre and other neighboring towns, it is expected that they will all send numerous delegations to Titusville

SAM RYAN'S troupe perform at Petroleum Center on this and to-morrow evenings They will be in Corinthian Hall on Monday evening next

The Strawberry Festival To-Night.

The Strawberry and Ice Cream Festival to be held by the ladies of the First Presbyterian Church in Corinthian Hallthis evening will not be forgotten by those who wish to enjoy a few pleasant hours and lend their aid to a good cause. The proceeds of the Festival are for the benefit of the church, and we hope to see the spacious hall comfortably filled The greatest pains have been taken to make this the Festival of the season The walls, ceiling and chandeliers have been very tastefully decorated with evergreens flowers, flags, paintings, &c, and the tables will be as enticingly spread as the most fastidious and critical observer could desire There is to be a Flower booth on the rostrum, and a Postoffice in the coolest of corners, for the convenience and delectation of the juveniles, as well as "children of older growth There will be vocal and instrumental music, also, and a grand panoramic display of the most renowned scenic curiosities in both hemispheres

The supper, to which everybody is invited will take place at 7 o clock in the evening Gentlemen who are in the habit of taking supper at home are requested to disappoint their families on this occasion only, and accept this invitation to "take tea" in Corinthian Hall

Letter from Pleasantville.

PLEASANTVILLE PA, June 20, 1866

Editor Morning Herald

A fire broke out this morning at half past twelve o clock on State street in this village in the frame building next east of the Union Hotel and was totally destroyed It was occupied below for an office by Dr Coburn a portion of whose medicine stores and library were saved His loss he estimated at $300. He had an insurance of two hundred dollars, but had neglected to have it transferred from where he previously kept his office

The second story was occupied by H H Davis with a photograph gallery, whose entire stock of goods and fixtures were consumed He estimated his loss at $800, on which there is an insurance of $400 Dr Smith, a dentist, also had his office above, but moved away the day previous and was succeeded by Dr Coombs, a dentist, from Titusville, and fortunately had not yet placed there his goods, except his dentist chair

The building belonged to the estate of John Henderson, deceased—loss $1,000, insured for $400 The fire is supposed to have caught from the stove pipe in the building was occupied till quite late the night previous and a fire kept in the room in which the fire originated

Aroused by the cry of fire the citizens of the village contiguous to it were promptly on the ground, formed a bucket line, and by strenuous exertions, there being no wind at the time, saved the Jamestown store kept by Messrs Tyrrell & Co, and the buildings near by from the flames

Following in the wake of the editor of the HERALD some of our citizens too, have angled amid the forests of Forest county Not long since, brother John Brown, of the firm of Brown Bros, and Mr Wilkinsby, one of their salesmen, pitched their tent on that camp ground and at length returned not only rounded in the inner man but in their baskets enough and to spare, having "captured" some four hundred speckled beauties of the finny tribe Another and larger party from here last week went and returned with like success

Rain by night and rain by day
Often I wish I'd staid in bay

Oil wells are still being pushed towards Chinabeabouts with signs of promise and ultimate reward Col N R Bates' well, a little south of the village is being tested with oil found at the bottom This well has had and caused all the afflictions to its proprietor that wells are heir to but perseverance against all obstacles seems at last likely to be crowned with oil Amen and so be it

Last quotations and sales of oil at Pleasantville are reported at $4 40 per barrel net

A new work entitled a History of the Oil Region, by Rev S J M Eaton of Franklin, Pa has just appeared in print and is not only exceedingly interesting but highly creditable to the author Its plain and modest narrative style, with its faithful delineations of the discovery and production of this eighth wonder of the world now one of the leading attractions of life will make it a real acquisition in the family library We bespeak for it the extensive circulation which it justly merits

G W HILL in his store on Franklin street, is now closing out his stock of school and miscellaneous books, blank books of all descriptions, stationery, envelops and pitted ware Mr Hill has a complete assortment, all bought for cash and as he is preparing to go East to engage in other business, offers great inducements to those who wish to purchase goods of his line An examination of his stock and prices will be advantageous to buyers

PERSONAL—Sam E Ryan Esq was in town last evening He goes to Petroleum Center to night and will return on Monday He informs us that he has been engaged by Mr F H Crittenden to perform his Combination here on the night of the 4th of July, for the benefit of the Crittenden Prize Contest

THE fiftieth anniversary of the organization of the First Congregational Society of Jamestown was celebrated on the 14th inst Of the original male member only three survive

BASE BALL—The regular practice of the "Unions" takes place this (Friday) afternoon at 4 o'clock, at their grounds on Walnut street Jno T Culver will act as Captain for the field Time to be called promptly at the hour

PETROLEUM MARKETS

TITUSVILLE, June 21

The petroleum markets are very weak We heard of no sales of any consequence at the wells The New York market has declined half a cent but the prevailing market held during the day at about $4 00 The tight place in the views of buyers and sellers is thus further apart than ever

We extract the following from the Pittsburgh Commercial of this morning

Broin oil, so far as related to it has undergone but few changes, buyers generally being the only bolters for lower figures Holders are firm in matters in that light Prices are still fully low to the high River being in good order for the Oil City fleets through this channel are expected to increase Oil in store reached 2 780 barrels yesterday, from Smith's Ferry 958 barrels were received, making a total of 2 880 barrels We have no change to notice The current rates were for bulk and barrels delivered in Allegheny City, according to the quality Holders don't appear willing to lower their figures Smith's Ferry oil sells at the same price as those obtained for Allegheny

There was a fair inquiry for crude for the eastern market Prices have undergone no material change The transactions since our last were 200 barrels bulk sold as follows 2,000 barrels June delivery, Philadelphia sellers option, 38c Sales were made for July delivery Philadelphia 40c P G 1,000 barrels June delivery private 1 000 barrels September delivery Philadelphia P G 400 500 bbls for October P G 40c Pony oil was not inquired for Price is nominal

The sales of crude reach 4 120 bbls divided as follows 700 bbls bulk 38 2c 600 bbls light oil without package, 40c, 1 300 barrels bulk 39 4c generally 38c Sales of 20 barrels Green county amber oil 42 gravity, 1 barrels refined 500 bbls 14 c 1 bbls extra at

Marsh's Washington Hair Restorer.

This is a preparation that will not only restore the hair to its original color and fullness—

But will actually stimulate the growth of hair, and will impart the gloss and lustre of youth to your hair, leaving it soft, pliable and free from dandruff

Selected out from nature's grand repository, it is a simple vegetable preparation, and where nature and science combine, the result is almost divine

A wonderful panacea which in truth Restores the failing lustre of your youth

It makes you feel, though seventy years in sound As sage at five you wave his silver wand

Grand Gift Concert.

CRITTENDEN'S PRIZE CONCERT—DISTRIBUTION OF WALTHAM GIFTS—A NOVEL FOURTH OF JULY ENTERTAINMENT.—Mr. E. H. Crittenden, the enterprising and popular proprietor of the Crittenden House, announces in this morning's HERALD, an entertainment for the Fourth of July, in the form of a mammoth Prize Concert. The novelty of the attraction consists in the distribution among the audience of upward of two thousand and ninety valuable gifts, amounting in the aggregate to $40,700—the leading prize being the large two story building standing from Spring to Diamond street, valued $16,000. The lot is 24 feet front by 140 feet deep. The building combines both store and dwelling, the former fronting on Spring street and having a spacious door yard, ornamented with trees and shrubbery; the store on Diamond street, adjacent to the Crittenden House, and constituting one of the most advantageous and valuable business localities in the city. The prize list also includes a one-sixteenth working interest in well 108, Rooker farm, a valuable house and lot, two gold watches, twenty-five double cased silver watches, and the entire stock of a jewelry store, [illegible] and furniture of the store and dwelling above described. A complete list of the prizes will be found in another column. There will be four thousand and seventy tickets, and two thousand and ninety prizes, or, a prize to every other ticket holder. Every ticket holder will be registered, and every ticket numbered in duplicate. The distribution will be in charge of a committee of disinterested citizens, to be selected by the audience at the time and place designated.

We have never before commended enterprises of this nature, from the fact that they are too often undertaken for purely speculative purposes, and managed by unprincipled parties who impose on public credulity. In this instance the facts are quite the reverse. Mr. Crittenden's references are Messrs. F. W. Ames, J. T. Chase, R. D. Fletcher, J. T. Briggs, C. C. Duffield, and W. W. Kingsland, gentlemen who are prominently known throughout the oil region. We have carefully examined the schedule and are confident there is nothing fictious or unreal about it. It is a matter of fact sale of unencumbered property at par value, by an extensive plan of distribution among ticket holders to an unexceptionable entertainment, and does not in any manner conflict with the common or statutory law.

Our citizens generally understand Mr. Crittenden's object in this matter. He has built and furnished at an enormous cost the largest and best hotel in the oil region. In giving it his exclusive personal attention, and devoting his entire capital to its success, it necessitates the suspension of his former business and the disposal of all other property. Every person interested in the reputation and prosperity of Titusville should appreciate the necessity of sustaining an enterprise of this character. The price of tickets is fixed at $10 each. More than half the ticket holders will receive gifts, and some of them will have abundant cause for rejoicing.
